Review by Iwan De Moor (repaged by Claudio Cigna)

Last year I went to the F.P.A. in Rimini and I had the idea nothing could ever equal that experience (except for another FPA in Rimini). Well I was wrong and must say Paga has topped it.

WOW this was a great 'weekend'. My first Paga, but now I really know that I have to come back to Rimini every year(... Like all Jammers should;) Besides that I'm going to have somebody to do my work in August so I can come to the FPA worlds in Rimini also, juli 30'th till august 1'st(... Like all Jammers should;)

Paganello,... where can I start? Maybe with what I remember from the evening of arrival? Welcome-party on the beach with good(!) free wine and food, a big crowd of friendly people, old friends from last year's FPA (You feel like family already), shows and bands in many varieties For example: breakdance, footbag specialists, bands, a didgeridoo+kongshell show, dancegroups, drumbands playing south-american rythms, DJ's, huge fireworks, a big party in a disco afterwards, great hotel and last but not least: Jamming was happening all the time and everywhere, day and night, it just went on and on and on.

The next days were, if possible, even better. The weather forecast had not looked so good, but it turned really nice, the sun got out, everybody tanned in a day and the wind got as good as it could be. Don't we all love light sea breeze best? (except for maybe Pipo, who like he proved on last years FPA final, can probably even handle hurricane like conditions). A giant ultimate tournament was taking place (joined by, what I heard about 1500 people). I was there for a wonderful freestyle tournament, joined by the greatest players in the world, but not only them.... also the less experienced(... Like all Jammers should;) On the beach: freestyle workshops, many people jamming and shredding and others just enjoying other people's moves. Skateboarding-shows on the 'promenade', parties and disco jams, semi finals of the freestyle-tournament in the disco. You name it, they got it.

Emperor Paganello rules.... and the best part is, it's annual. I'll come back every year(... Like all Jammers should;)
